

Oh, No!

Santa Is Stuck!

Writing Freebie

{someone, wanted, but, so, finally}

BY Natalie Lamont
Natalie's Nook

Oh, No! Santa Is Stuck!

Using the "someone, wanted, but, so, wanted" graphic organizer will help your students clearly sequence the steps to write an effective paragraph. You can modify the amount of detail you want to accommodate the abilities of your class.

This will make a cute writing display.

I have included an example of how the activity can be done just in case this writing format is new to you and your students.

Oh, No! Santa Is Stuck!

someone

Santa Claus

wanted

to deliver presents to all the children

but he got stuck in the chimney because he ate too many cookies

so

he called the elves to help him

finally

the elves came and pulled him out and Santa finished delivering the presents

Oh, No! Santa Is Stuck!

Santa Claus wanted to deliver presents to all the children. But he got stuck in the chimney because he ate too many cookies.

So he called the elves to help him.

Finally the elves came and pulled him out and Santa finished delivering the presents.

BY _____

Oh, No! Santa Is Stuck!

someone

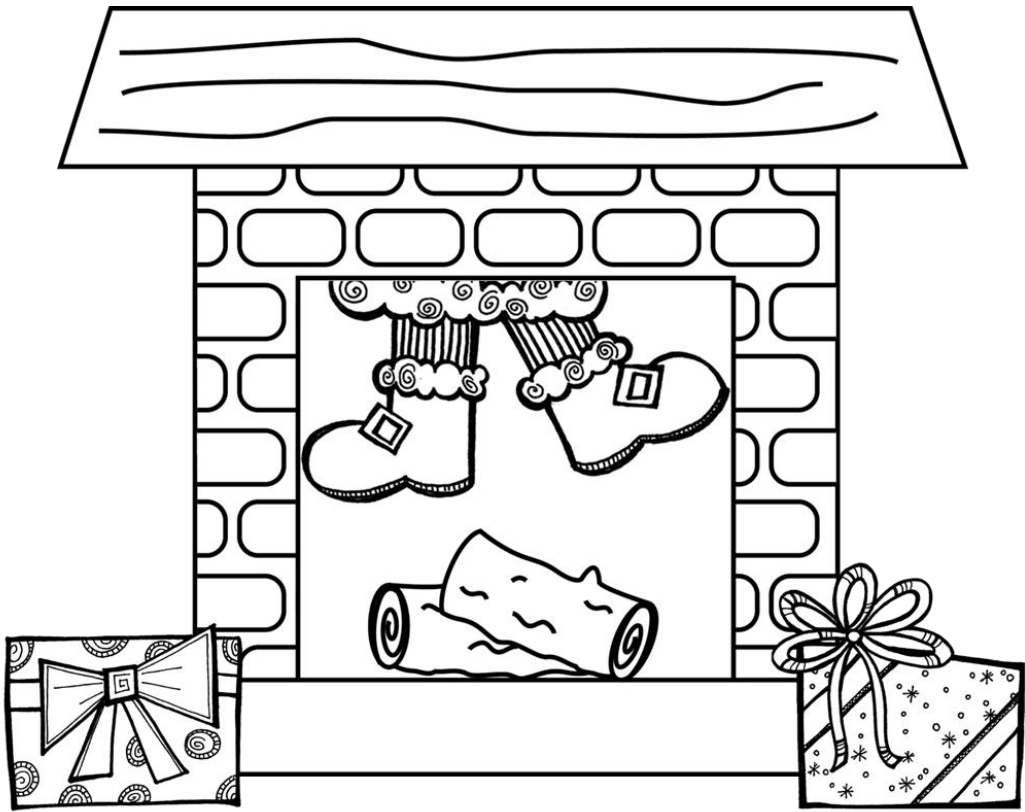

wanted

but so

finally

Oh, No! Santa Is Stuck!

BY _____

Thank you for downloading this Christmas writing freebie. If your students like this format you might want to check out my "Tis The Season For Writing" pack that has eleven writing entries. My kids love it!

<http://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Product/Tis-The-Season-For-Writing-Someone-Wanted-But-So-Finally>

Graphics: Krista Wallden (Creative Clips)

<http://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Store/Krista-Wallden>

Graphics: Stacy Johnson

<http://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Store/Stacy-Johnson>

Frame and Paper: JW Illustrations

<http://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Store/Stacy-Johnson>

Border: Pink Cat Studio

<http://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Store/Pink-Cat-Studio>

Happy Holidays!

Natalie

Natalie's Nook

<http://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Store/Natalies-Nook>

